

Ong Wee Loon
Australia

A/Prof Wee Loon Ong is Radiation Oncologist at the Alfred Health in Melbourne, and Adjunct Clinical Associate Professor at Monash University School of Translational Medicine. He graduated from Monash University School of Medicine in 2010, and completed an MPhil in Epidemiology from University of Cambridge in 2013. Following Radiation Oncology training in Melbourne, he undertook fellowship training at the Sunnybrook Odette Cancer Centre, University of Toronto, under the mentorship of Dr Arjun Sahgal on all aspects of neurooncology, including stereotactic body radiotherapy (SBRT) for spinal metastases. He has published widely relatively to opportunities with >70 publications to date, and is a recipient of multiple research awards.

Topic: Advances in Radiotherapy