

Ira Sun
Singapore

Dr Ira Sun is a senior consultant neurosurgeon at the National University Health System (NUHS), Singapore, with his primary practice based in Ng Teng Fong General Hospital (NTFGH). His clinical interests include minimally-invasive spinal surgery and the use of surgical technologies in cranial neurosurgery.

Dr Sun combines clinical excellence with an ardent passion for medical education. He currently serves as the institutional lead for Surgical Undergraduate Education in NTFGH, and on the post-graduate front as the Program Director for the NUHS Neurosurgery Residency Program, concurrently the Associate Program Director for the Singapore Integrated Program for Neurosurgery. He also contributes to the institutional leadership in medical education, in his capacity as the Associate Chairman Medical Board (Clinical Education) for NTFGH. He is an Adjunct Assistant Professor with the National University of Singapore.